ABOUT ME

This is Tsering Dhoundup. I am a young learner who is looking for the pace to work with company that works for technology. I have been working by myself from home since the day I quit my schooling. I have spent the quite few years learning Web Development as mentioned below in the field of skills. During my self-learning phase I tried to develop a simple Game. My passion is to develop Games and Website. I am an intermediate learner in Photoshop. According to my self-evaluation process, I have come to a conclusion that I raise questions without fear, share my point of view and have a creative way of thinking in this particular field. I believe in myself that with these skills and capacity, I can work with companies who intake active learners aiming to work in this field.
